BATTEN SECTIONAL GARAGE DOORS

Batten Sectional Door cladded in DecoBatten® Curly Birch

Batten Sectional Doors are a modern, functional and aesthetically appealing type of garage door designed with horizontal or vertical battens (or "slats") that create a distinctive, contemporary look. These doors are commonly used for both residential and commercial properties, combining the benefits of a Sectional Door system with the stylish and sleek appearance of batten cladding.

Design Innovation

The slats or battens can be made from various materials, including timber or aluminum, and are typically spaced to create a visually appealing pattern. With various materials and colour options available, you can create a door that complements your specific design preferences, from natural woodgrain finishes to solid, neutral colours.

Benefits

- A wide range of cladding materials chosen by builders or clients
- Designed for total weight (frame + cladding) up to 250kg for a Sectional Door
- Colorbond® backing or flow through option
- Durable and easy to maintain
- Standard size – 65 x 16 batten (speak with your local branch for other size options)
